WELCOME TO HCV RESOURCE GUIDE

An estimated 400,000 Californians live with chronic hepatitis C. Many do not know they are infected. Hepatitis C–related deaths now outnumber those due to HIV. There has been an increase in newly reported hepatitis C cases among young adults in the state: 55 percent among men 20–29 years of age and 37 percent among women in the same age group, according to the California Department of Public Health. New direct acting agents can cure hepatitis C in as little as two months. Hepatitis C disproportionately affects people of color, veterans, injection drug users, the homeless and inmates.

The Hepatitis C Task Force for Los Angeles County (HCTF) is a group of private and public agencies, advocates and concerned individuals working in partnership and collaboration to End Hep C in Los Angeles County by helping to eliminate new hepatitis C infections and to improving the quality of life of persons affected by Hepatitis C. The HCTF advocates for individuals regardless of their race, color, religious beliefs, sexual orientation, age, national origin, familial status or disability.

The goals of the HCTF are: (1) to develop and enhance systems of hepatitis C prevention, surveillance, testing, education, treatment, care and support; (2) to advocate for hepatitis C policies and funding; and (3) to increase public awareness and education of hepatitis C.

HCTF delivers critically needed education, support and advocacy. Its core activities are:

- The Annual Hepatitis C Summit. Each year, two hundred community–based providers, public health staff and advocates convene for a full day to learn about strategies to end hepatitis C, address barriers to care for priority populations, and understand potent direct acting agents and streamlined medical delivery to CURE HCV.

- The “C–Retreat”. This half–day seminar was developed specifically for people living with Hepatitis C, to learn about medical and emotional aspects of the disease, and engage the support of peers in a safe, nurturing environment. The C–Retreat is facilitated by Task Force volunteers and will continue to reach all–impacted service provider areas in Los Angeles.

- Political Advocacy. The Task Force is involved in vital collaborative advocacy efforts with partner organizations such as the California Hepatitis Alliance and the Hepatitis B Task Force. Members organize to participate in local, statewide and national advocacy events to shape and promote progressive prevention and treatment legislation.

- Direct Advocacy. Task Force volunteers act as advocates within their own communities to help individuals coping with Hepatitis C with resources, peer support and access to professional care.

Membership is free and open to any individual or representative of a nonprofit, private or public organization. Interested persons are invited to attend HCTF meetings on the third Wednesday of each month at 1:00pm (most months there is a noon lunch HCV provider update) at the following location:

HOW TO USE THE HCV RESOURCE GUIDE

How to Use This Resource Guide

This version of the resource guide compiled by The Hepatitis C Task Force for Los Angeles organizes Hepatitis C-related resources throughout Los Angeles County for both patients and providers. These resources are organized by geography and then by availability of Hepatitis C treatment and testing, respectively. Geographically, Los Angeles County has been divided into eight Service Planning Areas (SPAs) to assist various departments and agencies in organizing resources throughout the County. The eight SPAs are as follows:

SPA 1 – Antelope Valley	SPA 5 – West
SPA 2 – San Fernando Valley	SPA 6 – South
SPA 3 – San Gabriel Valley	SPA 7 – East
SPA 4 – Metro LA	SPA 8 – South Bay

Further information about SPAs may be found through the Department of Public Health's website: <http://publichealth.lacounty.gov/chs/SPAMain/ServicePlanningAreas.htm>

The available resources at the facilities in this guide are itemized in terms of:

- Testing for Hepatitis C
- Treatment of Hepatitis C
- Vaccination Against Hepatitis A and Hepatitis B
- Support Groups
- Needle and Syringe Exchange Programs
- Patient Health Navigators
- Education Resources and Counseling

Information herein is accurate as of date of publication, but is subject to change. Contact information is provided for each facility and it is highly recommended the facility be contacted prior to visiting. Inclusion of a facility in this guide does not signify endorsement.

This guide may not include all services available throughout Los Angeles County. If any information is found to be inaccurate or if additional resources or information should be added in future versions, comments may be addressed to brisley@apla.org. Every effort will be made to ensure that information is as accurate as possible in future publications.

HEPATITIS C FACTS

Hepatitis C (HCV) is the most common bloodborne infection and the most common cause of chronic liver disease in the U.S. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that three million adults have been infected with HCV; 75% of whom are unaware of their infection. In Los Angeles County, an estimated 135,000 have HCV.

HEPATITIS C

General Information

What is hepatitis?

“Hepatitis” means inflammation of the liver. The liver is a vital organ that processes nutrients, filters the blood, and fights infections. When the liver is inflamed or damaged, its function can be affected.

Heavy alcohol use, toxins, some medications, and certain medical conditions can cause hepatitis. However, hepatitis is most often caused by a virus. In the United States, the most common types of viral hepatitis are Hepatitis A, Hepatitis B, and Hepatitis C.

Most people who get infected with the Hepatitis C virus develop a chronic, or lifelong, infection.

What is Hepatitis C?

Hepatitis C is an infection of the liver that results from the Hepatitis C virus. Acute Hepatitis C refers to the first several months after someone is infected. Acute infection can range in severity from a very mild illness with few or no symptoms to a serious condition requiring hospitalization. For reasons that are not known, about 20% of people are able to clear, or get rid of, the virus without treatment in the first 6 months.

Unfortunately, most people who get infected are not able to clear the Hepatitis C virus and develop a chronic, or lifelong, infection. Over time, chronic Hepatitis C can cause serious health problems including liver disease, liver failure, and even liver cancer.

How is Hepatitis C spread?

Hepatitis C is usually spread when blood from a person infected with the Hepatitis C virus enters the body of someone who is not infected. Today, most people become infected with Hepatitis C by sharing needles, syringes, or any other equipment to inject drugs. Before widespread screening of the blood supply in 1992, Hepatitis C was also spread through blood transfusions and organ transplants. While uncommon, poor infection control has resulted in outbreaks in healthcare settings.

While rare, sexual transmission of Hepatitis C is possible. Having a sexually transmitted disease or HIV, sex with multiple partners, or rough sex appears to increase a person's risk for Hepatitis C. Hepatitis C can also be spread when getting tattoos and body piercings in unlicensed facilities, informal settings, or with non-sterile instruments. Also, approximately 6% of infants born to infected mothers will get Hepatitis C. Still, some people don't know how or when they got infected.

What are the symptoms of Hepatitis C?

Many people with Hepatitis C do not have symptoms and do not know they are infected. If symptoms occur, they can include: fever, feeling tired, not wanting to eat, upset stomach, throwing up, dark urine, grey-colored stool, joint pain, and yellow skin and eyes.

When do symptoms occur?

If symptoms occur with acute infection, they can appear anytime from 2 weeks to 6 months after infection. If symptoms occur with chronic Hepatitis C, they can take decades to develop. When symptoms appear with chronic Hepatitis C, they often are a sign of advanced liver disease.

How would you know if you have Hepatitis C?

The only way to know if you have Hepatitis C is to get tested. Doctors use a blood test, called a Hepatitis C Antibody Test, which looks for antibodies to the Hepatitis C virus. Antibodies are chemicals released into the bloodstream when someone gets infected. Antibodies remain in the bloodstream, even if the person clears the virus.

A positive or reactive Hepatitis C Antibody Test means that a person has been infected with the Hepatitis C virus at some point in time. However, a positive antibody test does not necessarily mean a person still has Hepatitis C. An additional test called a RNA test is needed to determine if a person is currently infected with Hepatitis C.

Who should get tested for Hepatitis C?

Testing for Hepatitis C is recommended for certain groups, including people who:

- Were born from 1945–1965
- Received donated blood or organs before 1992
- Have ever injected drugs, even if it was just once or many years ago
- Have certain medical conditions, such as chronic liver disease and HIV or AIDS
- Have abnormal liver tests or liver disease
- Have been exposed to blood from a person who has Hepatitis C
- Are on hemodialysis
- Are born to a mother with Hepatitis C

Can Hepatitis C be treated?

Yes. However, treatment depends on many different factors, so it is important to see a doctor experienced in treating Hepatitis C. New and improved treatments are available that can cure Hepatitis C for many people.

Testing is the only way to know if you have Hepatitis C.

How can Hepatitis C be prevented?

Although there is currently no vaccine to prevent Hepatitis C, there are ways to reduce the risk of becoming infected with the Hepatitis C virus.

- Avoid sharing or reusing needles, syringes or any other equipment to prepare and inject drugs, steroids, hormones, or other substances.
- Do not use personal items that may have come into contact with an infected person's blood, even in amounts too small to see, such as razors, nail clippers, toothbrushes, or glucose monitors.
- Do not get tattoos or body piercings from an unlicensed facility or in an informal setting.
